Duncan Solutions Announces New Business Unit President
Asaf Salama appointed to lead Duncan Technologies

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (January 30, 2013) – Duncan Solutions, Inc., a global leader in on-street parking management and enforcement technology solutions, has announced the hiring of Asaf Salama as President of its Duncan Technologies business unit. As President, Salama will oversee the continued enhancement and support of Duncan's integrated parking meter and enforcement solutions, including the Duncan AutoCITE handheld enforcement device and the Duncan Liberty™ single-space meters featuring credit payment options.

"We are extremely pleased to introduce Asaf, and we are excited about the energy and experience he brings to Duncan," said Duncan Solutions Chief Executive Officer Mike Nickolaus. "With Asaf's background in product engineering and business operations, Asaf's expertise is perfectly aligned with Duncan's vision and the direction our products and markets are headed."

Salama brings extensive experience with industry leaders in multiple technology areas, from General Motors and Ford Motor Company to smaller, entrepreneurial companies like Innovative Solar Lighting.

"There is a lot happening in the parking arena – including broad and innovative applications for solar power, advanced wireless communications, and integration with a wide array of consumer technologies such as mobile phones, tablets, and navigation devices," stated Salama. "Over the next several years, these technologies have the potential to converge in a game-changing way and impact motorists and municipalities alike. It is truly an exciting place to be."

Salama's primary expertise is the implementation and refinement of lean management practices to optimize performance across all facets of business operations, from research and development through end-user support.

Salama earned his Bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from the GMI Engineering and Management Institute and obtained an MBA in Operations Management and Investment Banking from the University of Michigan. As an advocate for the community, Salama currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Milwaukee Area Workforce Development Corporation and Sky Residential, Inc.
